To determine the impact of preoperative chemotherapy and nephron-sparing surgery (NSS) on renal function and long-term cancer-specific and metastasis-free survival in patients with metastatic urothelial carcinoma of the upper urinary tract (UTUC). A retrospective analysis was performed in patients with metastatic UTUC treated with chemotherapy followed by NSS in 3 European institutions. Demographic, clinical, pathological, and outcome data were collected. Estimated glomerular filtration rate (eGFR) was determined by the MDRD formula and the association with postoperative complications was investigated. Between 2003 and 2010, 40 patients (53 ± 14 years) underwent chemotherapy (≥6 months) followed by NSS. The median overall survival was 31.9 months and the 5-year metastasis-free survival rate was 54%. Twelve patients developed a postoperative complication; 2 patients (5%) had a complication leading to death. The median eGFR was 61 mL/min (range 32-88 mL/min) at 3 months. A significant decrease in eGFR was observed within 12 months (P

For example, Stanley Kubrick's "A Clockwork Orange" might contain little or no actual violence, but still has scenes of sex, a drug-infused experiment, and is known for its shock value. In the period film, Grace Kelly in "To Catch a Witch", is a non-sexual, but slightly immoral, nun who is suspected of witchcraft. The film portrays her as a woman who would go against her vows by engaging in sexual acts with strangers, in a convent.

Two of the most well-known Christmas carols are "Twas the Night Before Christmas" and "Jingle Bells." While the lyrics of these carols are relatively modern (written in the early 19th century), the melodies are much older. The words of "Twas the Night Before Christmas" were written in 1863 by Clement Clarke Moore, a New York clergyman, to his infant son, who was christened "Belle" Moore. Belle and his father were visiting his mother's relatives when the baby began to cry. Clement stopped singing in order to give the child his attention. As Clement sang a hymn
